
COLLEGE OF VETERINARY MEDICINE
Department of Graduate Public Health

July 23, 2018

Graduate Public Health Student

RE: Student Orientation and Classroom Dedication

Greeting Student ,

It is with great pleasure and enthusiasm that I welcome you to the 2018-2019 academic year in the Graduate Public Health Program and invite you to participate in student orientation scheduled for Tuesday August 21, 2018. We have many exciting new developments to share with you including the acceptance of our application for accreditation by the Council on Education for Public Health Education (CEPH). The new student handbook will be reviewed and made available for all students during orientation as well as our new classroom will be dedicated.

All students will benefit from the morning activities wherein all faculty will be available to discuss each and programmatic activities that they have available for student engagement. New students will benefit from an afternoon of tour of pertinent and historical sites available on campus. As you make your final preparation for the new academic year please plan to arrive to campus in time to participate in this equated departmental activity which is scheduled for 9a-4p CST.

Best wishes

Cystal M. James, JD, MPH
Head, Department Graduate Public Health
Director, Graduate Public Health Program
Associate Professor of Graduate Public Health
(404) 803-4949 (Cell)